The status of the parent application recited on instant pg. 1, line 1, needs to be updated to reflect that it is now patented.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1, the preamble is directed to making titanium oxide powder however the process actually makes barium compound on the surfaces of the titanium oxide powder which renders the claim indefinite and confusing. It is also noted that the titanium oxide powder is a component in the initial mixture rather than the final product of the process which is confusing and indefinite.

In claim 1, "the solvent-free mixture" lack(s) proper antecedent basis in the claim(s).

In claim 1, "the titanium oxide powder particles" lack(s) proper antecedent basis in the claim(s).

In claim 2, "the heating step" lack(s) proper antecedent basis in the claim(s).

In claim 3, "the heating step" lack(s) proper antecedent basis in the claim(s).

In claim 7, "the powder mixture" lack(s) proper antecedent basis in the claim(s).

In claim 11, "the heating step" lack(s) proper antecedent basis in the claim(s).

In claim 12, "the heating step" lack(s) proper antecedent basis in the claim(s).

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Japan 5-116943.

JP '943 suggests the instantly claimed process of making barium titanate by forming a dispersion, ie. slurry, of titanium oxide powder, barium salt powder in an acid, ie. solvent, and then spray dried to form a precursor powder which is then calcined to form barium titanate. See the abstract.

The subject matter as a whole would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to select the portion of the prior art's range which is within the range of applicant's claims because it has been held to be obvious to select a value in a known range by optimization for the best results, see In re Boesch, 205 USPQ 215.

The subject matter as a whole would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have selected the overlapping portion of the range disclosed by the reference because overlapping ranges have been held to be a prima facie case of obviousness, see In re Malagari, 182 USPQ 549.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
